

Clearing up the lies about the Diggory Court Cases - some original documents from various Courts..

After dragging a number of Small Claims litigants through five different UK Courts over a period of three years, Mrs Rosalind Miriam Franklin of Diggory Press / Exposure Publishing / Kingdom Come Publishing / Meadow Books / Author's Chance Ltd (etc) was found liable by a Circuit Court Judge who declared that her testimony was 'not credible'; that she had in fact lied under oath; and so awarded the original claims against her.

Unfortunately, not only did Mrs Rosalind Franklin refuse to comply with that Court Order, but in conjunction with her twin brother Mr Brendan O'Neill of Birmingham, UK, she then embarked on a campaign of defamation and character assassination against the claimants online, using multiple pseudonyms.

At the same time, Mrs Franklin set herself up as 'Miriam Franklin' the supposed end-times-prophetess, and proceeded to castigate thousands of individuals and organizations for engaging in 'fraudulent activities'.

These snapshots of Court documents are presented here in partial response to those campaigns of vilification and deception that have continued unabated for five years ongoing... Readers are respectfully invited to decide where the 'real' truth lies.

N24 General Form of Judgment or Order

IN THE COURT OF APPEAL, CIVIL DIVISION

REF: B2/2010/0152

017069

Manning) -v- Franklin

ORDER made by the Rt. Hon. Sir Richard Buxton

On consideration of the appellant's notice and accompanying documents, but without an oral hearing, in respect of an application for permission to appeal

Decision: granted, refused, adjourned. An order granting permission may limit the issues to be heard or be made subject to conditions.

Refused

Reasons

The explanation for the delay is inadequate, but as a concession to a litigant in person I have considered the substance of the application.

The history of the proceedings is not set out in, and is difficult to discern from, the application and the papers filed with it. However, the judge records [p 205C] that the proceedings on 9 November 2009 were listed as a "show cause" application. That meant that both parties should have had their entire cases ready. The judge then took what could be said to be the robust decision to hear evidence and, if satisfied, decide the case. That was a case management decision open to him provided that it did not cause injustice. The applicant complains that she was not able to deploy various documents. The judge wrestled with that complaint, and appears to have satisfied himself that the documents described to him would not assist the applicant. The applicant then has the formidable problem that the judge heard her case on oath, and disbelieved in effect all of it. The applicant has not shown how that conclusion could be undermined by further material.
