

A list of various online identities used by Rosalind Miriam Franklin to attack others, or to show apparent 'independent support' for herself or her businesses; or, to post misleading messages in support of one of her other false identities such as the end-times-prophet 'Miriam' Franklin

The list below does not include the dozens of false ID's used to post glowing testimonials on the Diggory Press website before it was shut down, nor the multiple online identities created daily by Mrs Franklin to cover her tracks. In many of the below cases we have IP addresses confirming they came from the same source. In other cases the 'author' somehow has insider knowledge that could only have come directly from Mrs Franklin; in other examples the spelling, grammar and syntax is clearly identifiable. However, in all cases, the named poster has either refused to prove their identity, ignored the request, or lied further about their identity. Features in grey have been disputed, but the individuals themselves have not as yet categorically disproved that they are not sockpuppets of Mrs Franklin.

'Franklinites' is a newly-devised term to describe (possibly?) well-intentioned, but naïve supporters of 'Miriam' the end-times-prophetess, who have inadvertently become embroiled in this drama. Worthy of note is 'peacebringer' (aka Tim Blake) and his sidekick 'Craig Lee', who have, regrettably, made serious errors of judgement in publicly supporting Rosalind Franklin – without checking the facts out first.. and then have unwisely gone to battle on her behalf online, before doing their research properly.

*May 2009; Mrs Franklin now masks her false identities behind 'anonymous' software designed to prevent other online users knowing where she is posting from. We suspect there are dozens more aliases, and will update the site as-and-when we uncover them. Meanwhile, if anyone has any reason to object to any name being listed here – please email me with your reasons and proofs. Thank you.

Feb 2010: Mrs Franklin has re-launched two new defamatory websites under various guises. One is immediately pulled from circulation, but the legal technicalities of webhosting seem to be allowing her to continue her defamatory activities after removing my first name.. Incredible; that it is this easy to defame someone unjustly..
